STUDENTS' UNION HOUSING CONTRACT AWARDED

The contract for the Students' Union Housing Development was awarded last week to Poole construction. Construction of the project on 112 Street south of the Henry Marshall Tory Building will begin immediately.

There had been a delay of almost a month in awarding the contract as a result of bids considerably higher than the original target cost of $5,047,100. Poole Construction presented the lowest tender at $5,600,000.

The new Housing facility will accommodate some 1,000 students in two-bedroom, four-bedroom, and bachelor apartments on either side of an enclosed pedestrian mall. Rent per student per month will be $50 in four bedroom suites, $80 in two-bedroom suites, and $90 in bachelor suites.

Privately operated businesses will be located along the mall, including a bank, barber and beauty shops, a book store, tobacco and news stand, and specialty food services. There will also be a billiards room operated by the Students' Union.

The building is scheduled for completion by the end of October next year, although according to JIM HUMPHRIES, Chairman of the Students' Union Housing Commission, some suites should be available for occupancy for summer session next year.

Site preparation is under way for two other buildings which will be started this fall, Education II, behind the existing Education Centre, and the Centennial Hospital, between the Clinical Sciences Building and the interns' Residence.

Another phase of the deep tunnel sewer system will be started later in the fall, extending from the new Mechanical Engineering Building, under construction east of the Engineering Centre, to the General Services Building. Tunnelling methods will be used extensively to minimize surface disruption. The road past the Hydraulics Laboratory and the Art Workshops will be kept open.

CONSTRUCTION REPORT

Eight major building projects are in various stages of completion, according to the August 15 Progress Report of the Campus Development Office.

The Law Centre is almost complete, and the Faculty of Law has moved into the fourth floor offices and parts of the first, second, and third floor library areas. Carpeting, panelling, and seating for classrooms are being installed.

Windsor Car Park (Car Park II) is substantially complete, with only the surfacing for the tennis courts to be finished.

The schedule for completion of the Basic Medical Sciences Building has been extended to January 31, 1972. Mechanical and electrical work is in progress, as well as sandblasting, which is producing a more uniform finish on the concrete exterior.

The Humanities Centre is 24 per cent complete. Concrete slab has been poured for most of the second floor level of the main building and for the grade level of the lecture theatres.

Chemistry II, Engineering Centre II (Mechanical Engineering), the Fine Arts Building, and Rutherford Library II all are somewhat behind schedule because of labor strikes and inclement weather.

MARINE BIOLOGY GRANT

The Western Canadian Universities Marine Biological Society (WCUMBS) has been awarded a $500,000 grant by the National Research Council of Canada to assist in the development of research facilities for a marine biological station on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The Society consists of a consortium of five universities—Alberta, Calgary, British Columbia, Simon Fraser and Victoria. The Grant provides for close co-operation between WCUMBS and the new federal Department of Environment.

The Centre will be the first of its kind on the Canadian west coast. It will be located at Bamfield, a fishing village on Barkley Sound, and will make its headquarters in an old federal cable station designated as an historic site and monument in 1930.

The Bamfield station will function as a major centre of marine biological research on the west coast, and it will promote contact between resident and visiting scientists. It will complement existing inner coast facilities of the Fisheries Research Board at Nanaimo and West Vancouver and those of the University of Washington.

D. M. ROSS, Dean of Science at The University of Alberta, says the grant has significant meaning to University students interested in careers in marine science.

"In spite of our inland location, The University of Alberta needs an outlet to the sea, both for teaching and research," says Dr. Ross. "Many kinds of living organisms are found only in the sea, and biological studies are incomplete unless they include some work in marine locations.

"We welcome the award of a substantial development grant to launch the facility, and we look forward to co-operating with the other four universities in the development and use of the laboratory."

DONNER FELLOW NAMED

JOHN C. COUGHAN, Provincial Judge in Edmonton, has been named the first recipient of the Donner Fellowship. He will spend the next eight months as a lecturer in The University of Alberta's Faculty of Law.

The fellowship is a new project started this year by the University. The Donner Canadian Foundation, a national charitable organization, has agreed to provide most of the $18,000 grant for two years. The grant is being supplemented by faculty funds.

GERALD FRIDMAN, Dean of the Faculty of Law, says the purpose of the project is "to get magistrates to come to the University 'on sabbatical.' It will enable Judge Coughlan to study criminal law away from the day to day pressure of the courts, and he also will be lecturing the third-year students on the administration of criminal justice."

A 1972-73 Donner Fellowship will be chosen next year by the faculty, the Attorney-General's department, and the Provincial Judge's Association. The project then will be reviewed and a permanent program will be set up through the government or the Donner Foundation.

VISITING PROFESSOR

R. K. DASGUPTA has been appointed Distinguished Visiting Professor in the Department of Comparative Literature, 1971-72, at The University of Alberta.

Dr. DasGupta was born in Calcutta, India and was awarded his Master of Arts degree in English in 1937. He received a PhD in

They arrived one after another, the carpets and the cartons and the students seeking truth. The new Law Centre found itself thrust into the world, with all the perils and pleasures of majority, a sort of instant legalis homo, before it had a chance to get fully clothed.

Bengali in 1949 and a PhD in English from Oxford University in 1957.

Since 1938 Dr. DasGupta has been teaching English and Bengali at graduate and postgraduate levels. He joined the University of Delhi in 1962 as its first Tagore Professor of Bengali. He was Head of the Department of Modern Indian Languages at the same university from 1962 to 1970, as well as being Dean of the Faculty of Arts from 1964 to 1967.

While at The University of Alberta, Dr. DasGupta will teach two courses, one on Relations between Asian and Western Literature and the other on Special Topics in Asian Literary Theory and Criticism.

ACCENTUATING THE POSITIVE

The latest version of practically everything—tractors, television sets, laundry soap, political platforms—invariably is labelled “bigger” and “all new improved.”

One of the few things for which this claim is uncontestedly true is the new edition of the Students’ Union Course Guide, published last week. In fact, it is a safe guess that the Guide is the best of its kind in North America; certainly it is one of the fairest.

This year the Course Guide is a fat, careful, and eminently more understandable document than the two preceding volumes. It contains detailed information on 90 per cent of the courses offered last year in the Faculties of Arts, Science, and Education, culled by computer and a few dedicated students from over 50,000 questionnaires filled out in 1,167 classes last winter. (The 1968 Course Guide, the first one published at this university, covered 235 courses; the 1969 edition, 492 courses; no Guide was published the following year because of a lack of funds.)

The new Guide also lists courses and instructors for the coming year, describes new courses, has an introduction which explains clearly how to use the Guide and discusses the question of student evaluation of courses and professors generally, and contains a time-saving cross-referenced index of instructors.

The students who produced the Course Guide are as aware as critical staff members of the general problems of student evaluations and the specific problems of this document. Funds permitting, in the future they want to include more courses, to improve the format and add to the book’s usefulness. Most importantly, “We need to devise a new questionnaire. We inherited the one we used from the last Course Guide and the questions were not entirely satisfactory,” commented Education student BETH ATKINSON, Assistant Editor of the Guide, already thinking of improvements for next year. “We hope we can have a separate Course Guide for each faculty, asking questions that are relevant to its courses.” The problem of the validity of student assessment of their professors is always hanging in the background. “But this is information the students can use, and even if it isn’t perfect, it should be made available to them.”

It is for this reason that a book costing about $2.70 to produce is being sold for 50 cents. Notices describing the Course Guide and its use will be distributed broadly during Registration Week, when the book will be sold in Lister Hall as well as the Bookstore and the Information Desk in the Students’ Union Building. Careful consultation of the Guide will enable students to register with some knowledge of the kind of course and, as much as possible, the kind of professor they will have for the next seven months.

One staff member, discussing the value of the Guide, thought it did both the students and the instructors a favor in “matching them up, which is about as important in a university as it is in a marriage.” Some students prefer highly structured, formally organized courses; others are more stimulated by informal courses with free-wheeling discussion. Judicious reading of the Guide can help lessen misunderstandings in advance.

While the Course Guide is intended primarily for the students, it is useful to staff members too, mostly as a mirror. Each professor receives the complete statistical breakdown of the questions (only a summary is given in the Course Guide itself) plus all written comments by the student. Complete feedback through the questionnaire may show instructors ways they could improve their courses; certainly it shows them whether or not they are getting through to their students. Statistical breakdowns but not comments are sent to department chairmen for their records. The long-range hope is that all this information will help improve teaching at The University of Alberta.

In the Course Guide most of the statistics were broken down and presented in verbalized form. “We discovered in the past,” said Beth Atkinson, “that students did not know how to use the statistical tables. Usually they just drew their conclusions from the comments, which gave a distorted picture of the courses." Only the positive responses were verbalized in most cases; negative responses were mentioned only if they showed a particularly strong and general dissatisfaction with some aspect of the course. The comments were handled in the same way, with accent on the most positive points and an aversion to cute sarcasms.

In fact, the students bent over backwards to be kind as well as fair to their instructors. Their main reason was that they wanted to be fair, to present useful and important information but not to hurt anyone's feelings.

They were extra careful for other reasons as well, for a few individuals on staff (perhaps individuals who felt they had reason to worry) had threatened libel suits if entries for their courses displeased them. Consequently all statistical summaries and summaries of comments were checked by the University solicitor before publication.

This year the Students' Union has produced an outstanding Course Guide. Regardless of any presumed weaknesses in student evaluations, no one can deny that the impression a professor makes on his class has rather a lot to do with the effectiveness of his teaching. For students, perhaps some will be misled by the Guide, for different people have profoundly different personal reactions. At the very least the Guide represents a sound, responsible attempt to give information which is available nowhere else.

As a footnote, Vice-President (Academic) HENRY KREISEL has found another use for the Course Guide. "At a time when a lot of misinformed people are criticizing instruction at this university unjustly, it pleases me to see proof of the high calibre of teaching here," he said. "And it is nice to be able to bring this out and say 'This is what our students think about it.'

NOTICES

SABBATICAL LEAVE

The following notice has been received from JOHN NICOL, Secretary to the Dean's Council at The University of Alberta.

Full-time members of the faculty who are eligible for sabbatical leave are reminded the closing date for the receipt of applications for leave during the academic year 1972-73 has been advanced to October 15, 1971.

Time should be allowed before October 15 to permit processing of the application by the department chairman and dean concerned.

It is expected that applications will be considered by the Dean's Council at its meeting October 20, 1971.

Application forms may be obtained from Mr. Nicol, 432-4954.

GENERAL FACULTIES COUNCIL

The Executive Committee of the General Faculties Council has authorized the Committee to Investigate Teaching to study the pass/fail grading system as an alternative to the present grading system in undergraduate courses. The Committee to Investigate Teaching has set up certain guidelines for examining this system.

The Committee is interested in learning if faculty members would be willing to take part in the study by having one or more of the courses they teach conducted under the pass/fail system. Faculty members desiring to do this or wishing to inquire further into the nature of the grading system and the proposed experiment with the Committee to Investigate Teaching, are asked to contact D. L. SCHALFFER, 432-5259, or DAVID OTTO, 432-5295.

The Committee to Investigate Teaching has set up Room 289 in the Central Academic Building as an experimental learning environment. The room has been furnished in a somewhat unconventional manner. Staff members are invited to view the classroom Thursday, September 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Additional information concerning scheduling and objectives of the room may be obtained from DAVID OTTO, 432-5295.

DIGITIZING SERVICE

The Department of Technical Services is interested in coming into contact with anyone who has at present or will have graphic data that needs to be digitized for subsequent computer assisted analysis. The graphic data could be in the form of maps, slides, film, engineering drawings, strip charts, etc.

If it can be demonstrated, through contractual arrangements for work to be done, that a sufficient amount of this type of (data reduction) requirement exists and that it is not at the present time readily available on campus, Technical Services will attempt to provide a digitizer for general campus use. This equipment would be located centrally and made available on a per hour or per day basis. The charging would be on a cost per hour basis if the user digitized his own data, or on a cost per point digitized if the digitizing service was provided.

A digitizer consists essentially of a table with moveable cursor, a control circuit containing the X and Y co-ordinate registers and an output device. This output could be on cards, magnetic tape, punched tape or typewriter. Cost for a basic system of this nature is approximately $20,000.

Anyone having a need for this type of a device now or foreseeing a use for it, or needing some more information or having some ideas on the subject, is asked to communicate these needs and/or ideas to MARTIN DE LEUW at 432-5835 or at Room 372, General Services Building.

VACUUM PUMP WORKSHOP

"Sargent-Welch" will conduct a two-day workshop on the maintenance and operation of vacuum pumps September 13 and 14. Any departments having technicians they would like to have attend the workshop should contact W. H. JOPLING, Co-ordinator of Technical Services, 432-3302.

STAFF BASEBALL RESULTS

The results are now in from the first annual baseball game between the Chemical-Petroleum and Mechanical Engineering staffs. Despite adverse weather conditions and the umpiring of Dean Ford and Associate Dean Flock, the Chemical and Petroleum Engineers managed to eke out a narrow 22-2 victory.

AUDITIONS

Auditions for the Richard Eaton Singers will be held Tuesday, September 7 at 8 p.m. in Room 345, Agriculture Building. Auditioning will be for all voices and is open to anyone interested. Performances scheduled are: Handel's Messiah, Haydn's Creation, and Grand Mass de Notre Dame de Machaut with the Edmonton Symphony. The director will be SANDRA MUNN, Assistant Professor of Music at the University.

LIBRARY SEMINARS

The University of Alberta Library will sponsor a series of seminars intended to stimulate discussion of the services and information sources available at the University and other libraries.

The seminars will be held on selected Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3:30 p.m. in the Penthouse of the Cameron Library and are open to anyone interested.

Seminars scheduled this month are: "Interlibrary Loan Service," MRS. B. SCHWOB, September 23; and "National Bibliographies, a Comparative Analysis of the British Museum, Library of Congress, and Canadian Catalogues," MRS. S. RANSOM, September 28.

A complete schedule for the fall series may be obtained from the Reference Department, Cameron Library, 432-3794. Monthly schedules will appear in FOLIO.
